Governor Pays Tribute To Cone Safety Work

Speaking to the Central Piedmont Safety Council Wednesday night at Proximity School, Gov. Luther H. Hodges paid tribute to Cone Mills for "its many worthwhile contributions to the work of the safety organization." The meeting, was attended by several hundred industrial managers and employees, including some from Cone plants in Greensboro, Gibsonville, Reidsville, Salisbury and Hillsboro. It was held at Proximity School auditorium with Cone Mills as host.

C. Wallace Bourne, Jr., chairman of the council, presided. Clarence N. Cone, vice president of Cone Mills, welcomed the group. Ben Cone, former mayor of Greensboro presented the governor.

Governor Hodges referred to Marion W. Heiss, vice president of Cone Mills, as "one of the key men in the organization of the council back in 1935."

The governor, who has had wide experience in the field of textiles, emphasized safety as a good industrial investment.

He pointed out that according to the records of the North Carolina Industrial Commission, since it was organized in 1929, a total of 1,419,000 claims have been processed showing a total of 3,023 deaths.

"There was a direct cost in medical and compensation for injuries which resulted in 11,000,000 days lost from work. During the fiscal year 1954-55, there were 94,271 injuries reported to the North Carolina Industrial Commission with a total of 131 persons killed in industrial accidents during that time. This is evidence enough that we need and must continue our efforts in accident prevention," declared the Governor.

"North Carolina has long been a leader among the states in industrial safety. Our State-wide Industrial Safety Conference is the old-

Mrs. Oldham Meets Television Celebrity

Mrs. Minnie Oldham, 733 Chandley Court, former employee of Cone Mills, found out last Friday night that watching late television shows really pays off—in friends, that is.

Mrs. Oldham, a Cone employee until her health failed in 1938, was watching her television screen about 11 p.m. when suddenly she came face to face with a familiar face, that of Mrs. Myrt Power, the famous $32,000 question grandma of baseball knowledge.

The local lady telephoned station WFMY-TV and asked to speak to her screen idol. To her surprise, Myrt came to the phone. It all wound up with a visit from Myrt to Mrs. Oldham last Saturday afternoon.

"Why, she was just like one of the family," said Mrs. Oldham. "She kissed my son, Floyd and complimented him for being so smart about keeping house for me and working in the Revolution Rayon Plant."

Mrs. Oldham's sister, Mrs. Beulah Fields, White Oak Cloth Room employee also met the celebrity. Myrt was in town visiting her

Employee's Daughter To Serve In Africa

Mrs. Katherine High, the 134th Southern Baptist Missionary from North Carolina, was appointed by the Foreign Mission Board recently for foreign service in Nigeria, Africa. Katherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Younts, 1415 17th Street here in Greensboro. Mr. Younts is employed in the White Oak Plant Spinning Department. Mrs. Younts is a former Cone employee.

Mrs. High and her husband will sail, for a three-year span of service, for Nigeria, about January 1 of next year. They will take a three-year supply of clothes and equipment including their dishes, a kerosene refrigerator, and stove. At the end of the three years, they will return to the United States for a one year furlough.

Mrs. High, attended the Cesar Cone and Rankin High School. She graduated from the Carver School of Missions and Social Work in Louisville, Kentucky in 1952 after attending Mars Hill College and Wake Forest College.

She was a member of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church in 1946 when she made her decision to go to the Foreign Mission Field. She had planned at first to go to Japan, but during her student days in Wake Forest, she worked among the Negroes and felt that she should go to Africa because of the great need there.

Mrs. High was employed by the Western Auto Supply Company here for about two years. During her summers while attending college, she did Mission work for the North Carolina Baptist State Mission Board, and also was Educational Director of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church for three summers.

She felt called to go to Africa because of the mission emphasis of her church under the direction of Rev. W. C. Adkinson who is now pastor in Garner. The Auxiliary Groups of the Woman's Missionary Union also had a great influence on her decision. The present pastor of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church is William L. Bennett.

At the October meeting of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, Mr. and Mrs. High were among the 16 young people appointed to serve in foreign fields. Five of them will serve in South America, six will serve in the Orient, and five will serve in Nigeria, West Africa.

Cone Y's Staff Member Wins Bowling Classic

(Cone Memorial YMCA's physical education director for women has really earned a name for herself in the field of bowling. The following story is reprinted from the December 5 Richmond News Leader. Miss Allen appeared in two photos accompanying the article. They were unavailable at The Textorian's press time.)

CAROLINIAN TROUNCES STARS TO WIN OLD DOMINION CLASSIC

By Ken Black

"If Maxine Allen lived in the Baltimore-Washington area instead of in the Carolinas, there wouldn't be a woman bowler who could come anywhere near her."

This was the opinion of several bowling alley operators and duckpin officials at a recent Washington meeting.

Their opinion was given additional backing here Saturday when the Greensboro woman trounced the best women stars of the Middle Atlantic area in winning the seventeenth annual Old Dominion Women's Classic at Regent Alleys. It was the second time in three seasons that she had led the field.

Clinton S. Ford, Regent operator, recalled the discussion after Miss Allen had bested a veteran rival of the past decade—Baltimore's Elizabeth (Toots) Barger—in a thrilling afternoon duel on adjacent alleys.

Miss Allen's six game score of 803 withstood the bombardment of 50 more bowlers on the remaining shifts and was worth $100 to the Tar Heel champion who also will receive the Schwarzschild trophy. The score was 12 sticks better than her 1953 winning score but was 12 sticks shy of the record of 812. Miss Allen's games: 124, 122, 135, 155, 126, 124.

Mrs. Barger, the nation's No. 1 woman bowler, took the $75 second prize with her 791-total.

Lone Richmonder
Richmond had 32 of the 86 entries but only one—Miss Polly Russell, of softball pitching fame—gained the prize lists. She won $20 for having the best score among the minor league bowlers. (under 105-average). Her 715-set was tenth best of the day. This is the first year for the minor league awards. Three such prizes being given.

Audrey (Sis) Atkinson, of Baltimore, the defending champion had 734—she won last year with 779—and finished in seventh place.

Opening with a 168-game, Mrs. Barger gained a 27-stick advantage. Miss Allen cut the margin to 14 pins in the second and trailed by three in the third, the Baltimore blonde having 401 to Miss Allen's 398.

The Tar Heel bowler pulled away in the fourth with a 155-game and led by 50 pins at the end of five games. Mrs. Barger rallied in the final with a 162-game but a seventh-frame strike by the Carolinian practically "iced" the match at that point.

Frances Wilson, of Washington, bowling on the second shift, got off to a 300-start in the first two games with 127 and 173. She finished in third place with 785.

PIN CHIPS—Former winners in the prize lists were Ethel Dize, eighth; Ida Simmons Slack, eleventh; Min Weisenborn, thirteenth. Mrs. Virginia Cootes was the only former winner who finished out of the money.

Two 1-5 rips proved costly to Dot Hanson, of Baltimore bowling on the final squad. She made the first cut in the fourth frame of the fifth game, sending the next two balls through the hole for a two-out. She finished the game with 131. In the final game, she spared in the last box. Needing four pins to tie for the last-place prize, she ripped

16th Street Church To Present Pageant

A Christmas Pageant, with living characters and animals, will be presented by the members of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church beginning December 16, at 7:00 p.m. This pageant will be presented on the front lawn of the Church each night except Sunday and Wednesday.

The Christmas scene showing the manger scene will be accompanied by music from the choir under the direction of Robert Hill. Francis Caviness and Doris Bennett will be in charge of the costumes. George Farrington will construct the scene. Jimmy Phillips will serve as electrician, and Harry Moore and Willard Lawson will secure the live animals.

Charles Staley has made plans for 140 people to serve on the cast. There will be two casts, of 10 people each, to serve each night. The two casts will alternate every 30 minutes. The adults will form the casts for December 16, 19, and 22; the Young People will serve on December 17 and 24; and the Intermediates will serve on December 20 and 23.

The public is invited to observe the living Christmas pageant and to listen to the music and Scripture each night until 10:00 p.m. The pastor of the church is William L. Bennett.

White Oak Y's Men To Show Movie

White Oak Y's Men's Club will hold its annual benefit movie Saturday morning, December 17 at 10:00 at the Proximity Y. The purpose of this program is to raise food for needy families in this area.

All children are invited and anyone who cares to come. Several cartoon movies and westerns will be shown. Admission charge is at least one grocery item such as a can of beans, can of milk, coffee, fruits, sugar, etc.

The food which is taken in will be distributed to needy families who are to be selected by a screening committee of club members and "Y" staff employees.

Last Year's program was a big success and the White Oak Y's Men anticipate greater success this year. This is another in the service projects conducted by the Y's men in their efforts to make our community a better place in which to live and to bring cheer and comfort to those in need.

Cone Y Team To Play Greensboro Y

Saturday night, December 10 Cone Y will play host to the Greensboro Y Basketball team on the Cone Recreation Centers reconditioned gym. The game starts at 8:00 o'clock.

The starting line-up that Coach Ted Summers plans to use will see Al Smith and Cleo Pegram at forwards, Frank Smith at center, John Smith and Archie Wheeler at guards. First line reserves will be Percy Thornburg, Billy Hayes, Phillip and Mike Whitt.

Bobby Holt, former North Carolina State Star, will lead the Greensboro team.

Haw River 25-Yr. Group To Hear Sydney M. Cone

Sydney M. Cone, Jr., vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, will be speaker for the second annual service award event for employees of Cone Mills' Tabardrey and Granite Plants at Haw River Community Club tomorrow (Saturday) night. Mr. Cone and James Webb, also a vice president of the company, will present service pins to nine employees of Granite Plant and 26 of Tabardrey Plant.

Sydney M. Cone, Jr.

Proximity-Print Works Club To Have Christmas Dinner December 13

Proximity-Print Works Community Club will have their regular annual Christmas dinner Tuesday, December 13 in the Ladies Social Room of the Proximity YMCA at 6:30. Reservations must be made by Saturday night, December 10 by calling the club president, Mrs. Richard Sullivan 2-0565 or the "Y" 9621. The dinner is $1.25 per person.

NOTICE!

President Herman Cone is reported improving at Moses Cone Memorial Hospital following a heart attack on November 26.

Photos made by The Textorian at the Central Piedmont Safety Council meeting Wednesday night will appear in the next issue of this paper.

TABARDREY OLD-TIMER—Thomas Gray Dixon came as watchman for the old Holt-Granite-Puritan Company 65 years ago. As a boy, he picked up quills then later was a slasher tender for 20 years. He is now a utility man in the Weaving Department at Tabardrey. The 73-year-old employee will be among the guests at the second annual service award event at Haw River Community Club Saturday night.

GRANITE OLD-TIMER—Joe W. Clayton, shown above, came to work as watchman for the old Holt-Granite-Puritan Company 58 years ago. The 83-year-old veteran employee comes to work every day in the Pickering Department of Granite Plant, which has been a Cone plant for 56 years. Three of his sons, J. C., Floyd and Roy, are also Granite employees. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bertha Clayton, and one grandson, Carl also work at the plant. Mr. Clayton will be among the guests at next Saturday night's service award dinner at Haw River Community Club.

Burning In Effigy

We certainly have a strong feeling that students at colleges and universities, and even high schools, should not only give considerable thought to the activities and policies of their respective schools but are entitled to the American privilege of expressing their thoughts.

However, we do find great fault with what now appears to be a growing practice of burning in effigy officials whose actions or policies do not concur with those held by students, whether it be a few or a large number.

We can draw a similarity between the practice of burning in effigy and burning the fiery cross. Such action not only expresses bitter resentment but also implies threats.

The Textorian, in taking this position, is not attempting to take sides or pass opinion on the issues which have brought about the burning in effigy episodes. We do, however, see great danger in such practices. We further feel that such practices are in direct contradiction to the principles generally subscribed to by student bodies.

The general acceptance of such practices would mean a partial recognition of mob action. Regardless of the age group involved or the organization affected, we can find little justification for such demonstrations.

Threats and intimidations are bad and are not in accord with an intelligent conception of democratic behavior. Even if such actions are considered by the participants as a lark we still feel that the seed sown by such episodes can grow into something extremely dangerous.

It would appear to us that students themselves, their governing bodies and school administrations, and even local and state governments should give grave consideration to such actions by students.

The matter should have more of an educational approach than a punitive one because we feel that more lasting benefits can be obtained if reason corrects the situation rather than punishment.

The Bible Speaks To Your Need

By Rev. W. L. Bennett, Pastor
 Sixteenth St. Baptist Church

A bitter critic once said, "It doesn't take much of a man to be a Christian." To which the Gospel of Jesus Christ replies, "It may not take much of a man to be a Christian, but it takes all there is of him." Salvation is free. "It is the gift of God, not of works, lest any man should boast." (Ephes. 2:9). But to be a good Christian, a follower and devoted disciple of Jesus costs much. Jesus said any person who undertakes to follow Him without paying the supreme price will utterly fail. He may embark upon the Christian journey, but will not complete it. He is like a man who plans to build a house, but has only enough material to lay the foundation. (Luke 14:28-30) "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple." (Lk. 14:33) The kind of service that does not cost anything is not worth anything to God. Neither will God accept it. He will utterly reject it.

Pascal said, "It is one of the great principles of Christianity, that whatever happened to Jesus Christ should come to pass in the souls and bodies of all that are His." This is a broad and hard statement. Yet, the Gospels confirm it. The Christian dies in Christ's death, rises in His resurrection, sits with Him in the heavenlies, and when He appears shall appear with Him in glory. It is equally true that, in sacrifice, devotion and discipleship, the Christian is to follow the example of Jesus. Many Scriptures command the believer to follow Jesus, to be like Jesus, to work and even suffer like Jesus. 1 Pet. 2:21 declares, "For even hereunto were ye called; because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow His steps." Paul yearned to be like Jesus in every particular, desiring His afflictions as well as His joys and victories. "That I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, being made conformable unto His death" was Paul's highest spiritual aspiration. (Phil. 3:10).

The genuine Christian will never ask, "How little is required of me in time, talent, labor, money, and surrender to please Christ?" Rather, he will ask, "How much am I privileged to give in time, talent, labor, money and surrender to Jesus who gave His all for me?" And the Christian's answer is found in the example of Jesus. He gave His all. A good disciple and follower of His will do, he must do likewise. "If any man will come after me," Jesus said, "let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for My sake shall find it." (Mt. 16:24-25).

This column is for children only. It's about Christmas and what it does to grownups and what children can do to help them through the crisis.

You've noticed, no doubt, what sometimes happens to older people during the holiday season. You've seen how tired and cross they can get, and you've suffered from it. They skip meals to go shopping, burn their fingers baking cookies, cut themselves on broken tree do, things that sound like fun. They remember things that Grandma used to do. All these things get added to the list. And so the Christmas customs grow from year to year.

Grownups wouldn't do these things if they didn't want to. They love Christmas season, and they want to pack into each Christmas all the good times they remember from earlier Christmases. But as the old saying goes, "their eyes are bigger than their stomachs."

You can't stop them entirely, and you wouldn't want to spoil their fun. But perhaps you can tactfully help them to make this Christmas a more relaxed and happy time for all. You might suggest a family conference on holiday activities and use your influence to cut out some of the customs that have turned into hard work. You can suggest a share-the-work plan. Even the younger children can take on some duties. They'll get a lot of fun out of pasting Christmas Seals that fight tuberculosis on greeting card envelopes. Suppose they aren't on straight? The true Christmas spirit of kindness and generosity will be there.

BOWLING NEWS

By Maxine Allen

Edmond's Drug Store and Summit Center Esso broke the three way tie for second place in the Cone Ladies League last Friday, by winning two games apiece. Edmond's defeated Kool Springs Trailer Park, with Minnie Wood leading the way, bowling a 273 set, and 99 game. Second high was Doodie Wood, with a 270 set, and 100 game.

Frances Amos was high bowler for her team, Kool Springs Trailer Park, with 259. Jean Gregory's 93 game was high.

For Summit Center Esso, Ellen Fisher bowled a very nice 311 set, second high in the league to date. Her high game in the set was 115. Betty Wilson's 296 set was second high.

Ila Roberts bowled high set for Benlee's, 253, and Margie Mendenhall's 90 game was high. Benlee's still holds a strong six game lead in the league, and rumor has it that they plan to keep that lead. Eighteen weeks remain in the bowling season—come on down to the Greensboro Alleys Friday nights and see what happens!

No 'Split Personality' In American Economy

Suppose you were in a roomful of people who were asked to split up into groups of producers, consumers, or investors. Into which group would you go? You could become a case for a psychologist, with a three way personality split, if you seriously tried to decide. Because we're all producers of goods or service; we're all consumers, and all who have money in a savings account or insurance policy are investors.

In our economic system, the producer, the consumer and the investor are not three separate individuals, with conflicting interests. The roles are interdependent. High production, through new machines and equipment made possible by high investment, means a high level of consumption—a high standard of living. So beware of special-group spellbinders. The three parts of our economic selves prosper together or not at all.

Prox. Tri-Hi-Y Club To Sell TB Cross Pins

Tri-Hi-Y Club of the Proximity Y met Monday night to discuss plans for the selling of TB Double-Bar Cross pins on December 10, at the Summit Shopping Center. The club is divided into two teams, with one group selling in the morning, and one in the afternoon. The Tri-Hi-Y members have volunteered 100 percent for this service, and will be grateful for all of the support Saturday shoppers will give them.

At the meeting, club members also made plans to bring gifts to their next meeting to be taken to the County Home at Christmas time, for distribution among the residents there. The club members plan to ride out to the County Home in the Y truck, and to sing Christmas carols while there.

Miss Maxine Allen read an article to the club titled, "Know Your America", then conducted a ballroom dancing lesson to conclude the meeting.

Next Monday club members are inviting their boy friends to the Tri-Hi-Y weekly meeting for a dancing lesson, in preparation for their Christmas dance to be held Friday, December 23.

Much Activity At Recreation Center

Starting Tuesday, December 13, and running through December 22, the Greensboro Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor a Children's Christmas Club at Cone Recreation Center. The club is for children between the ages of three and six years, and will be held every Tuesday and Thursday 12:00 noon. Santa Claus will be there in person on December 22nd. Bring your child and leave him for two and a half hours of Christmas fun while you shop, houseclean or just plain rest! There will be Christmas games, songs and crafts taught your wee wonders and we know they will enjoy it! We will also have a direct mail line to Santa at the North Pole, and can take care of all their Christmas letters to him. For further information, call 2-3146. Registration will be at the first meeting on the thirteenth.

Greensboro Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring Jr. and Sr. children's social dance instruction classes at Cone Recreation Center. Children eight through 15 will be taught on Monday afternoons at 4:15, and from 15 through 19 at 7:30 on Tuesday nights. Registration may be done at meetings or by calling 3-3228.

Sans Souci Girls' Club, sponsored by the Greensboro Parks and Recreation Department will be in charge of the White Oak District for the sale of the Greensboro Tuberculosis double barred crosses this Saturday, December 10 from 9:30 until 4:30. Headquarters will be in Cone Recreation Center.

Carraway Circle Has Christmas Program

Circle No. 1 of Carraway Memorial Methodist Church met at the home of their chairman, Mrs. Otto Burnside, last Monday night. As part of her devotional program Mrs. L. C. Harris read a Christmas Story.

Miss Judy Yow played three selections on the accordion, and Mrs. J. H. Wrenn gave a reading. The circle presented Mrs. Burnside with a gift and she in turn gave each of them a present. The group also exchanged Pollyanna gifts.

Those present were Mrs. G. B. McIntyre, Mrs. C. T. Ward, Mrs. R. R. Wyrick, Mrs. C. L. Thornbro, Mrs. E. L. Reece, Mrs. John Foust, Mrs. R. E. Norman, Mrs. Lee Lindsay, Mrs. G. E. White and Miss Judy Yow.

Dr. E. H. Nease To Speak To Ministers

Dr. Edgar H. Nease, Sr., pastor of Muir's Chapel Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker at the Annual Christmas Dinner and Ladies' Day of the Textile Ministerial and Religious Workers' Association at the Proximity YMCA, Wednesday, December 14, at 12:00 o'clock, noon.

Dr. Nease has held many important posts in the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference, and he endeared himself to the people of Greensboro during his Ministry at West Market Street Methodist Church.

All members of the Textile Ministerial and Religious Workers' Association and their wives are expected to be present.

Expectations are that a total of 5,800,000 passenger cars will be turned out this year.

Missionary To Hold Sunday Night Service

Thomas High, husband of Mrs. Katherine High, will conduct the evening worship service Sunday night, December 11 at Sixteenth Street Baptist Church at 7:30. Mr. and Mrs. High leave January 1 to take up missionary duties in Africa for the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Betty Jerigan Passes State Board Examination

Mrs. Betty Lou Jerigan, now on the nursing staff at State Hospital in Raleigh, passed the R. N. State Board Examination December 5. Mrs. Jerigan is the former Betty Lou Beal of Revolution, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie R. Beal and was employed in the Revolution Flannel Plant before entering nursing school at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

Bible's History To Be Shown In Film

History of Bible Is Motion Picture Theme

Jerome translates the Bible into Latin

"Our Bible-How it Came To Us," a feature-length motion picture which unveils the fascinating story of how the Bible came down to us through the ages, will be shown at St. Paul Methodist Church on Sunday evening, December 11, at 7:30 p.m. It was announced today by Rev. Joel T. Key.

Produced by the American Bible Society, this sound film sweeps across the centuries from the formation of the Old Testament to the present time. It shows the Scriptures in use in Palestine in the time of Jesus, how the letters of Paul and the Gospels were written and used in the early Church; then comes the thrilling story of the translation into Latin, the spoken languages of Europe, and finally into English. Deeply dramatic and detailed it portrays the martyrdoms and oppressions faced by those who have brought the Bible down to us.

Young Matrons Club Has Covered-dish Luncheon

Young Matrons Club held their monthly meeting Wednesday, December 7 in the Proximity Y, with a covered-dish luncheon served buffet style. The club got into the Christmas mood by making corsages and singing Christmas songs. Each member brought food for needy families. Pollyanna gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Lee Crabtree gave the devotional.

son, C. W. Power, and flew back Sunday to New York City and her jobs as baby sitter and personal appearance on TV shows. She told her new friend to watch for her, along with other winners of money on the $64,000 question, in a spelling bee some time in January.

Mrs. Oldham invited Mrs. Power to eat Christmas dinner with her, but the gay grandma will be in Palm Beach, Fla. at that time.

The visit ended with Myrt's presenting Mrs. Oldham with an autographed picture of herself. While waiting for her plane Sunday morning, the baseball wizard telephoned her new friend to tell her she would write soon.

GOVERNOR PAYS TRIBUTE

est in the South and one of the oldest in the nation. You are all familiar with the five state-wide safety contests sponsored by the Industrial Commission in textiles, hosiery, furniture, dairying and bottling. There has been excellent cooperation between employers, employees, insurance companies and state government in the prevention of industrial accidents. It will take needless pain and injury, reduce lost earnings of employees and employer, and save the needless suffering which so often follows these accidents," stated the state's chief executive.

Mr. Hodges commended those of the group who have shown interest in individual plants in sincerely trying to prevent accidents in continually emphasizing the importance of training employees in safe working practices and in striving toward accident prevention at all times.

"Safety is a good investment. It saves industry money. It's just as cheap to keep the mill or factory clean as it is to keep it dirty," declared the former head of Fieldcrest Mills.

Highway Safety

He reminded the audience that they are much safer in the plants than driving to and from work on the public highways. He then made a plea for safe driving and citing last week end's death toll of 21 as the "bloodiest regular week end of the year."

Mr. Hodges warned that such bloody weekends will continue unless "individuals are willing to make whatever personal sacrifice it takes to understand and obey our motor vehicle laws and the laws of common courtesy on the highways."

Guests Recognized

Among those recognized at the meeting were J. W. Bean, chairman of the North Carolina Industrial Commission, Frank Crane, commissioner of Labor; Billy Creel, director of safety for the North Carolina Industrial Commission; Franklyn Griffith, safety supervisor for the Commission; L. L. Weitner, of Western Electric, Tip Rice, of Western Electric, vice chairman of the Central Piedmont Safety Council; Charles Ward, of Highland Cotton Mills, treasurer of the council; Miss Gwyn Weaver, of Blue Gem, secretary of the council.

Gustav Ziprik of the Cone Memorial YMCA staff gave the invocation.

H. M. Angel, Cone Y secretary, invited the group to the school cafeteria for refreshment.
